

State of Connecticut
GENERAL ASSEMBLY
Commission on Children

The Social State of Connecticut 2002

Errata

In Section IV Connecticut in Contrast of this report, the data on Connecticut towns was drawn from the 2000 Census. Some of these district names may look unfamiliar to Connecticut citizens. They reflect how the census data is organized. On page 74, the high poverty rate in Storrs, where the University of Connecticut is located, includes students who reported no income.

Corrections

Page 9: The Advisory Committee includes Judith Busch, Chair of the Commission on Children, and Laura Lee Simon, Chair Emeritus of the Commission on Children

Page 55: Stonington replaces Stongington

Page 69: Wethersfield replaces Wetherfield

City/Town Clarifications

Page 67: Bantam is a borough of Litchfield

Page 67: Georgetown includes sections of Redding, Weston, Wilton and Ridgefield

Page 75: Storrs is a section of Mansfield

Page 75: Poquonock Bridge is a section of Groton

Page 75: Fenwick is a borough of Old Saybrook

Page 75: Chester Center is a section of Chester

Page 75: Groton Long Point is a section of Groton

Page 75: Terramuggus is a section of Marlborough